

Coronavirus: AVE at work adopting all the safety prescriptions, with the same commitment as always

All departments (offices, production and logistics) are operational, guaranteeing services to customers and partners.

Observing the recent measures decreed by the Italian President of the Council of Ministers to contain the spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19), AVE has implemented smart working, as much as possible, and the other safety precautions, that are useful to guarantee the continuation of the work in accordance with the provisions of the competent authorities.

Appropriate measures have been taken to protect employees and ensure all services with the same professionalism and quality as always. From production to logistics, the Company keeps open all departments today, reconfirming its commitment to the electrical chain and positively facing this delicate historical moment. Particularly:

- The offices remain regularly open: AVE has favoured smart working, so that the employees can operate remotely in complete safety. The activities of the offices (including the commercial and technical assistance ones) are therefore guaranteed and they can be reached via digital channels.
- Production and shipments continue: all the necessary precautions have been appropriately used within the factory and logistics department to ensure the continuation of the work and specially to protect employees, that are adequately informed about the safety measures to practice in order to minimize risks, as correctly sanctioned by DPCM (Italian Prime Minister's Decree).

AVE is also ready to implement any other provision that will be ratified by the Italian Government for the well-being of workers, customers, business partners and the whole population, so that the current health emergency situation can be resolved in the best way as soon as possible.
